

Behind the Headlines

Annotated Front Page

'He craves fame, money and sex' Andrew Rawnsley on Nigel Farage in the New Review

INTERVIEW
Belfast boys
Kenneth Branagh and Ian Hinds on their childhoods in the city and their claimed new film
New Review

Skylines
This panel helps to market the paper by tempting readers inside. It usually tells readers about stories in other parts of the paper.

Johnny Marr answers your questions

From £1.85 for subscribers
www.observer.co.uk | Sunday 6 February 2022 | £3.50

Masthead

A specially designed logo showing the name of the newspaper.

Date and price

Costs of the paper are covered by a combination of the cover price and advertising.

The Observer

Partygate: PM's removal now inevitable, warns loyalist

- More MPs to submit resignation demands
- New chief of staff as No 10 rejigs team

Standfirst

Used to add detail that was not included in the headline.

was now "inevitable" that Tory MPs would remove him from office over the "partygate" scandal.

In an interview with the Observer, Sir Charles Walker, a former vice

The PM and the Bard Johnson could be Falstaff: carnal, cheerful, pragmatic. But beneath lies something venal

Emma Smith, Focus, p 33

Edition Dots

We print up to three different editions per night. One dot means this is the first edition. During elections and special events, we might print up to five editions.

A slice of history

The Queen, who today becomes the first British monarch to reign for 70 years, celebrates at Sandringham yesterday. She also announced Camilla, Duchess of Cornwall, will be Queen Consort when Charles accedes. (Full story, page 5) Getty

Caption

Captions describe the photograph and link it to the news story. Often they include the photographer's name.

Give me back my £200,000, major donor tells Tories

Jon Ungoe-Thomas

Byline

The name of the writer(s). Sometimes their job title or where they are writing from is included.

Amers had paid £200,000 for membership of Tory donor club the Leader's Group in December 2020. But he says he was excluded from the invitation list for high-level events last year, and that officials were instructed not to invite him to the party's winter ball last November.

He says he also paid £150,000 for auction prizes he never received, including the breakfast with the prime minister, a Japanese meal with Jeremy Hunt and a "magical show" by former defence secretary Penny Mordaunt, who once worked as a magician. Amersious quial One in hi Nati £40, been shortlisted.

Amers said this weekend that while the donation system appears

Continued on page 11 >>

Body Text

The main text of a news story, written by the reporter.

Turn

Often front page stories continue elsewhere in the paper.